Biography

Lisa Westgaard is an award-winning photographer specializing in food and still life. From packaging and advertising, to fine art, books and editorial, Lisa brings an artist's eye to every image she creates - her work is infused with her vision from start to finish, as she playfully experiments with light, compositions, textures and color.

She is described by her colleagues as a photographer who does not simply take a picture – she creates it. As an art photographer, Lisa is passionate about capturing the beauty of the imperfect. Her work has been exhibited in solo- and group exhibitions. As a director her short films tell visual food stories.
